DISPATCHES TO THE OREGONIAN.

EASTERN DATES TO NOVEMBER 11.

EASTERN STATES.

Particulars of the Fire—Under Control.

BOSTON, Nov 10.—At a quarter before 9 o'clock the fire had reached in nearly a straight line from Congress street through Lindall to Kilby street and Liberty street, both sides being on fire. The Merchants' Exchange and postoffice are gone. The mails, however, have been saved. The postoffice will open in Faneuil Hall to morrow by half past eleven o'clock The progress of the fire toward the water in the direction of Kilby and Central streets, seems to be effectually stopped, and streams of water are used in extinguishing the flames among the ruins, which present an appearance of utter devastation.

The conflagration was got under control about 1 o'clock, having, in the space of fifteen hours, destroyed hundreds of the costliest and most substantial warehouses in the country, and temporarily paralyzed the business of leading mercantile interests, the shoe and leather business and dry goods trade. It is said there is not one wholesale shoe and leather establishment left in the city.

The wool trade has suffered in an equal degree, and the dry goods and jobbing houses left are few and far between.

The Ninth Regiment, with a detachment of other regiments, amounting to 1,200 men, are on duty for the protection of property and the preservation of order.

The fire was got well under control a little after midday and has not extended since.

The following are the general boundaries of the fire: Whole length burned on Summer street, across Federal and nearly down to Drake's wharf, and thence in nearly a direct line to Fort Hill, along Hamilton and Battery, marching to Kilby street as far as Central street, and from Milk to Summer, taking Washington street. Within these boundaries is an area of nearly seventy acres, in which every building is consumed.

Assistance.

CHICAGO, Nov. 10.—Sympathy and aid is proffered by telegraph. A fire engine arrived by special train from New York this noon.

Estimates of the Loss.

CHICAGO, Nov. 10 —The loss is estimated to be between $80,000,000 and $90,000,000, and the insurance at from $10,000,000 to $12,000,000. A good many persons are injured and several killed.

Aid from Portland.

CHICAGO, Nov 10 —Two steam fire engines came from Portland with 400 of her leading citizens, headed by Mayor Kingsbury, to proffer every aid in their power.

Excitement in New York.

NEW YORK, Nov. 10.—News of the Boston fire has caused even greater excitement here than that occasioned by the Chicago fire. By noon, upon the supposed loss was already greater than that of Chicago, the city presented more the aspect of a business day than the Sabbath. In commercial circles a marked consternation prevailed, as it was universally felt that the business interests of the city would suffer very materially. Wall street men were intensely excited, and congregated during the day and evening at the Fifth Avenue Hotel. The general impression was that to morrow will witness a panic in the stock market. Settlements were made to day on the Pacific Mail at the price of Saturday, and on the Union Pacific at 6 per cent. below Saturday. They closed on the Western Union at 4 per cent. below Saturday.

The News at Cincinnati.

CINCINNATI, Nov. 11.—The news of the fire at Boston causes great excitement. Only two Cincinnati insurance companies lost, but how much is not known. Several banks received dispatches from New York, advising them to loan nothing to-morrow, and look out for a panic. They are telegraphing through the country to collect loans due.

Prompt to Help.

CHICAGO, Nov. 10.—Dispatches from Detroit, Columbus, Ohio, and Indianapolis, have been received, stating that meetings have been called by the respective Mayors to devise ways and means to relieve the sufferers in Boston.

Breaks out Again.

BOSTON, Nov. 11.—The fire has again broken out in the stores of Marshal & Co., and of Shreve, Crump & Low, jewelers. It is raging violently. It is hoped, however, that the Fire Department will be able to keep it under. The gas is going out all over the city.

BOSTON, Nov. 11—3 A. M.—The fire broke out afresh from three gas explosions in the rear of Jordan, Marsh & Co.'s store. The fire crossed Washington street toward Temple Place, and gained rapidly. It now looks as if two blocks toward the Common would go.

BOSTON, Nov 11—3 40 A. M.—As seen from Providence Depot this morning, where the Western Union Company has established its office, the flames are higher and apparently spreading. Reports are that the whole block on Washington and Temple streets will be destroyed.

BY ATLANTIC CABLE.

Fire in London.

LONDON, Nov 10—7:30 A. M —A fire broke out last night in the City Flour Mills, Thag street. The entire mills are destroyed, and the fire is still raging. Losses are very heavy, but at this hour no idea can be formed of the amount. All the fire brigades in the city are on duty.

LONDON, Nov. 11—6 A. M.—The conflagration on Saturday was extinguished, but not till the mills were entirely destroyed. The loss will exceed $500,000. One of the firemen was killed, and several injured. The fire is the most extensive and disastrous London has suffered since 1861.

CALIFORNIA.

From San Francisco.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 10.—The following dispatches have been received by Hutchinson, Mann & Smith, No 314, California street:

"Philadelphia, Nov. 10, 6 P. M.—To Hutchinson, Mann & Smith, General Agents, San Francisco.—The Boston fire will not injure us. We have but few risks there."

"Philadelphia, Nov. 10.—To Hutchinson, Mann & Smith, General Agents, San Francisco.—The Pennsylvania is not affected by the Boston fire.

Signed, W. RUSHWARNER & CO."

INTERIOR CALIFORNIA DISPATCHES.

YREKA, Nov. 11 —It has been raining and snowing all along at intervals and is raining very hard to night. Telegraph line down south.

BY STATE TELEGRAPH

EUGENE CITY, Nov. 11.—It has been blowing and raining all day. The mountains indicate a large fall of snow outside of the valley.

OAKLAND, Oregon, Nov. 11.—It has rained almost constantly day and night for the past few days, but has now suspended operations for a short time The road between here and Roseburg has been nearly impassable for stages. Col. Hooker has just arrived from the South, trying to hurry up things so the mails will come through earlier The stage will connect with the construction train at Roseburg to night.

Returns from all the precincts in the county are not in yet. The county will go over 300 majority for Grant. Myrtle Creek is the only precinct in the county which gave a majority for Greeley.

About three weeks ago a young man by the name of Manning fell from a staging at Empire City, Coos county, and was severely injured. He was employed on the new steamer now building at that place. An adz that was lying on the staging followed Mr. Manning in his descent and struck him between the shoulders, causing a very painful wound. For a time it was thought he could not recover, but at last accounts he was doing well

The tug Escort, of Marshfield, while attempting to cross the bar at Empire City, shipped a sea which carried away her smoke stack and doing other trifling damage. The smoke stack struck a man in its fall, injuring him severely but not dangerously.

OREGON.

The total damage by the late fire at Dallas amounted to $1,000.

A letter was lately dropped into the Postoffice at Goose Lake directed to "Schichagough, Illinoyse."

Circuit Court, Judge Prim presiding, began in Jackson county on Monday. The docket of cases for trial was small.

Two and one half inches of rain fell at Roseburg during the month of October. So says a man who kept a record.

Owing to the bad state of the roads beyond Roseburg, the stages often fail to connect with the cars at that place, says the Plaindealer.

A regular weekly paper will soon be issued at Empire City, Coos county. The Rustic has been published at that place occasionally heretofore.

William Miller, of Lane county, whose cattle were stampeded by the Indians near Klamath Lake some time ago, has recovered a part of the stock.

Prof. Rogers, of Coos county, has been, for some time, engaged in getting up a new kind of Geography which, it is claimed, will possess great merit.

Roseburg Lodge No. 5, I. O. G. T., was reorganized on the 7th inst. by R. Leland, State Lecturer, with thirty five members. Rev. E. D. Winton was elected W. C. T., and Mrs. A. R. Flint W. V. T.

Information is wanted of James W. Smith, who moved to Oregon in 1852. When last heard from he was living in Washington county. Any information concerning his whereabouts will be thankfully received by S. J. Foster, Haddam, Kansas.

The Roseburg Pantagraph places Grant's majority in Douglas county at three hundred, and the Times, of Jacksonville, counts on only 100 majority for Greeley in Jackson county. The Democrat claims 30 majority for Greeley in Baker.

The Jacksonville Times, (Dem.) says: "Josephine county has undoubtedly gone for Greeley by a small majority. The only precincts heard from are Kerbyville, Slate Creek and Williamsburg, which give Greeley an aggregate majority of about 12 The other precincts will increase the majority to about 25."

About four weeks ago the schooner Active was launched at Gardner, on the Umpqua. She is said to have cost $15,000, and is owned by Capt. Thurquist. Her dimensions are as follows: One hundred feet over deck, keel, 92 feet, 29 feet beam; keelson, 23x14 inches; floor timbers, 12x16 inches; keel, 23x14 inches, and is shod with 12-inch shoe. She is half clipper, and is said to be the staunchest vessel ever built at that place. She will carry 200,000 feet of lumber.

"A surveying party was fitted out last summer," says the Yreka Union of the 4th inst., "to survey the country between the ninth standard on the south and the California and Oregon line on the north, and Little Klamath and Tule Lakes on the west and Goose Lake on the east. Mr. Ingalls had a contract from the Government to survey this district. Mr. McKay, one of the party, has been stopping in Yreka the present week. From him we learn that the job has been completed and the company disbanded. It is proper to remark that the belt of country immediately to the west of Goose Lake for a breadth of about 20 miles, known as the 'Devil's Garden,' was reclaimed last year. The most of this is perfectly worthless, even for pasturage. Mr. McKay informs us that but little of the country surveyed has any value except for pasture, and a great deal of it but little value for that. On the borders of Tule and Clear Lakes there is some land that will produce grain and vegetables, but even that is better adapted to grazing."

THE TERRITORIES.

The celebrated sculptress, Ida Lewis, has a brother living in Bozeman City, M. T.

From the vote cast at Olympia last week, it is presumed that the place has 3,000 inhabitants.

Madison county, Montana, has according to the assessment roll, a property valuation of $2,000,000.

The net profits of the Cable City mines in Montana during the past season were over twenty-seven thousand dollars.

A Fancy Fair will take place at Brant Hall, Vancouver, this Tuesday evening, under control of the Sisters of Charity.

The District Court met at Olympia last Monday, and will hold a three weeks' session, using Firemen's Hall for the purpose. Judge Greene will preside.

S. Loeber, a prominent merchant of Helena, Montana Territory, was drowned while attempting to cross the Missoula river at Horse Plains on the 30th of last month.

Thurston county, W. T., at the last election, gave Garfield one hundred and thirty-one majority; this election it gives McFadden one hundred and thirty-two majority.

Major John P. Bruce, formerly editor and publisher of the Montana Democrat, and one of the oldest newspaper men of the West, has assumed editorial charge of the Avant Courier at Gallatin City.

No clue has been secured as to who were the perpetrators of the late stage robbery in Pleasant Valley, Idaho. At last accounts the victims were stopping at a hotel in Corinne, unable to get away for want of funds.

Boston girls are up to everything. One of them at twenty years of age, is in the Indian Territory publishing a paper in the Choctaw language. Her younger sister is thinking of going to China, there to publish a journal in the Chinese tongue.

Miners engaged in working a valuable claim in Clear Creek county, Colorado, situated on the north side of Leavenworth mountain, at an elevation of 12,800 feet, found their way impeded by frost, even at the great depth of 250 feet, the earth and rocks being frozen in a solid mass together.

The Helena Herald says: With a north and south railroad connecting Montana with the Central and Union Pacific lines, thousands of people from all parts of the world would yearly visit the National Park—the most wonderful region on the earth's surface. How long are we going to try to keep the world away from Montana?

Pilgrim Bar, Montana, has been the scene of successive robberies recently, of which we have accounts as follows: On the 31st ult. Arthur Hungill, an employe of John H. Rodgers, left his cost containing $570 in currency lying in the cut, was absent a short time, and returning found the money had been stolen. About the same time the cabin of J. L. Woods and Thomas Mitchell was robbed of $225 in dust, the former losing $135 and the latter $90. Two days after Frank Brown had $700 in currency stolen from his boarding house.

DECISION IN THE U. S CIRCUIT COURT BY JUDGE DEADY.

In actions at law a writing complained upon or pleaded must be set forth in the pleading according to its tenor or legal purport and effect, and if it literally or correctly and minutely as an exhibit, it will be stricken out, on motion or demurrer.

Where a contract contains various substantive and independent stipulations, and there is a breach of more than one of such stipulations, there arises distinct causes of action which should be pleaded separately.

An allegation that the defendant failed to furnish transportation to laborers furnished the defendant by plaintiff to his damage so many dollars is not uncertain, but only nominal damage can be recovered under it.

MONDAY, Nov 11, 1872.

United States Circuit Court—District of Oregon.

Oh Chow and Gin Lee vs J. L. Hallett (No. 162); Sheat and Wing Lock vs. The Same (No. 163). Actions to recover money.

Motions to strike out portions of complaints.

These actions were commenced October 14, 1872, and the motions to strike out were argued and submitted together on November 9.

The first named one is brought to recover the balance of $1,982 46, alleged to be due the plaintiff for laborers furnished the defendant to work upon the N. P. railway; and the sum of $365 33 damages for a failure on the part of the defendant to furnish transportation to take said laborers and their freight from said railway to the town of Roseburg. The second is brought to recover a balance of $654 26 and the sum of $142 damages, alleged to be due the plaintiffs and incurred in like manner.

In each case the contract sued upon, instead of being pleaded in the complaint according to its tenor or legal effect, is annexed thereto as an exhibit.

In each complaint the allegation in regard to the failure to furnish transportation is numbered 6, and commences. "And for a further breach of defendant's said contract, plaintiff alleges that defendant failed," etc. No facts are stated except the failure aforesaid to show that the plaintiffs sustained damage by reason thereof.

The motions to strike out are aimed at those allegations as well as the ones making the contracts, exhibits, and the contracts themselves.

As to the allegations concerning the contracts, the motions must be allowed. In pleadings in actions at law, there are no such things as exhibits. If a party desires to complain upon or plead a writing he must state it in his complaint or plea according to its tenor or legal purport and effect. Such has always been the ruling and practice in this court.

As to the allegations numbered 6, they should have been pleaded not as "a further breach" of the contract, but as a separate and further cause of action. The practice of assigning more than one breach in the same count or statement of a cause of action, prior to the code, was permitted only in covenant upon a deed and by statute in debt upon bond with a condition, or to secure covenants. When an ordinary contract contains various substantive and independent provisions—as in this case, to pay for labor furnished, and to furnish transportation to laborers—if there is a breach or failure to perform more than one of the stipulations, there are distinct causes of action, requiring different proofs, and which may admit of different defences, and therefore should be stated separately. This cause of action not being pleaded separately is liable to be stricken out on motion. (Or. Code, 163.) But these allegations are not liable to be stricken out upon the ground assigned in the motion as being "immaterial and irrelevant." True, no special damage could be proven or recovered under them, because no facts showing such damage as stated in them, as that the plaintiffs by reason of such failure were compelled and did furnish such transportation and pay for the same so much. Still the allegations contain an averment of a breach of the respective contracts, for which, if found true, the plaintiffs would be entitled to recover nominal damages. So much of the motions is denied.

DEADY, J.

C. B Bellinger, for plaintiffs.
Joseph N. Dolph, for defendants.

DECISION IN U. S. CIRCUIT COURT BY JUDGE DEADY.

T. W. agreed to furnish H 66 or more men at different rates of wages to work upon the N. P. railway for an indefinite time. In an action to recover a balance alleged to be due T. W., upon such contract the plaintiff alleged that he had duly performed all the conditions thereof on his part.

Held, on a motion to make more certain that the allegation was not sufficient, because the contract did not limit and settle what number of men, or for what term the plaintiff was bound to furnish them and therefore the averment was uncertain.

In an action upon such a contract it is not sufficient to allege that in pursuance thereof, there became due the plaintiff a certain sum of money, but it must be alleged what amount of labor was furnished under the contract, and that there is due or became due therefor so much money.

Different breaches of same contract give rise to distinct causes of action.

United States Circuit Court—District of Oregon—Monday, Nov. 11, 1872.

Toy William vs J. L. Hallett—Action to recover money.

Motion to make complaint more certain.

This action was commenced October 22, 1872, and the motion to make more certain was argued and submitted on November 9th.

The action is brought to recover a balance of $747 13 alleged to be due the plaintiff on a contract to furnish the defendant with laborers to work upon the N. P. railway; and for $116 28 damages alleged to have been sustained by the plaintiff by reason of the defendant's failure to furnish transportation for such laborers and their freight from their camp on said railway to Portland.

The complaint is upon an agreement dated June 18, 1872, between the plaintiff and defendant, whereby the former agreed to furnish the latter 66 or more Chinamen, in gangs of 30 working men, with one cook, water boy and interpreter to each gang, to work on the railway aforesa

The Daily Oregonian.

TUESDAY MORNING, NOVEMBER 12, 1872.

Latest from Boston.

The latest intelligence from Boston would seem to indicate that there may yet be greater destruction of property. The portion already consumed we are informed by a gentleman who is perfectly familiar with the city, includes nearly all the largest dry goods houses, and as large an amount of wealth as could have been found in an equal area anywhere in the city. The establishment of Anderson, Heath & Co. was the second in order of the great importing houses in the line of dry goods and silks, and the other firms mentioned as among those burned out, stand with the highest in the country in their respective branches of trade.

From the line of the fire, as stated in the dispatches, it is considerd scarcely possible that the Postoffice could have been consumed without the destruction of the new Postoffice building which has not yet been occupied. The telegraph does not state whether the building refered to was the old or the new one, but the inference is that it was the old building, as mention is made of the fact that the mails, which were then in the old building were saved.

From the point where the fire broke out afresh, as stated in the dispatch from Providence depot, at 3:30 P. M., which is the last of the regular telegram, the prevailing northwest wind would carry the conflagration down through one of the finest sections of the city, left standing at the abatement of the fire on Sunday afternoon. The path the fire would take with such a wind, would include Winter street and that side of Washington which had not already been consumed, and would lie through a dense row of costly buildings of granite and brick, all the way to Providence depot. We are informed a private dispatch received at a later hour than those we publish, states that the fire was still increasing; but, upon inquiry, we have not been able to trace this report to any reliable source, and it is hoped there was no foundation for this statement.

The loss is not so great as that caused by the burning of Chicago, but it is evident that in financial circles, it is regarded as likely to disturb the business of the country very seriously. The prudential measures advised by New York telegrams to the Cincinnati banks, evince great anxiety concerning the effect of the fire upon banks in other sections of the country.

The insurance companies are not so heavily involved as they were in the Chicago fire, but it is doubtful whether they will not find it more difficult to meet their losses than they did in that case, having scarcely recovered from the strain they then had to undergo.

Already meetings are called to take measures for relieving the distress of those who have been left destitute. There ought to be no delay in finding out the extent to which assistance may be required, as the advancing season leaves little enough time before winter will add its rigor to the sufferings of the homeless.

Political Corruption in England.

It has been often said that the people of England had no such scruples upon the subject of purchasing votes, as we affect on this side of the water. Whatever may be the corrupt practices of our politicians, no one has the hardihood to go openly into the corruption of elections. Bribery may be resorted to for the purpose of securing office, but those who resort to it acknowledge the immoral and disgraceful character of the transaction, by concealing it from public, or even private, gaze, as far as possible. It is a sign that there is some virtue left in a people, when they endeavor to appear virtuous. Crimes that shrink from the light of day are bad, for all crimes are bad; but crimes that have not the shame to hide from the world, are the worst that one can imagine.

Much has been said and written of late in this country about the gross immoralities attendant on popular elections, but we have no such general and unblushing bribery, recognized and countenanced by honorable men in church and society, as the London Times describes in England:

"The classes from which nine-tenths, we might say ninety-nine hundredths, of M. P.'s are chosen, do not attach any disgrace to political corruption. The notoriety of the fact that they have won their seats by bribery and treating does them no social harm, but, on the contrary, gains them notoriety for cleverness, if they avoid being found out. No bishop would decline a good dinner at the house of the most notorious briber in existence; no judge would turn his face from an acquaintance who had just spent £20,000 in corruptly defeating a better candidate than himself. This disgraceful state of morality in the upper circles will not be mended by exhortations and admonitions, though it would be speedily improved if some of the persons guilty of the misconduct were sent to prison for six months, and taught by association with other criminals, less fashionable but no worse than themselves, that something like justice animated the law."

From this it would seem not only that the current stories in this country about the corrupt means by which offices are secured in England are true, but that such means are regarded as a matter rather to be proud of than deprecated. If this is what the ballot is to come to here, we shall find that in America where everything is determined by a popular vote, and where all sorts and classes of people enjoy the right of suffrage, there will be no such thing as a free and unpurchased expression of the wishes of the people upon any important question, whether of men or measures. American institutions will prove to be very much more sensitive to the evil effects of this wholesale bribery than English.

According to the monthly report of the Agricultural Department for October, there has been a marked falling off in the wheat crop of the Middle States and in some of the Western States. The New England States hold their own, except Maine which shows an increase over last year. The decrease in the Middle States is attributed by the Government statistician to the severe freezing of last winter. In the South the product is largely in excess of last year, by reason of both the increase of area and superior condition of the crop. The increase upon the product of last year in Virginia is 1 per cent., in North Carolina 36, South Carolina 13; Georgia 81; Alabama 39; Mississippi 1; Texas 220; Arkansas 2; Tennessee 100; West Virginia 4; Kentucky 75. There is a large increase also in the yield of some of the States in the upper valley of the Mississippi and its tributaries, though nothing like equal to that of some of the Southern States. California shows an increase of 75 per cent. and Oregon 5.

The greatest falling off is in Pennsylvania and Missouri each of which lose 10 per cent. in the comparison.

The total crop of the year is estimated at 240,000,000 bushels against 230,000,000 last year. California is credited with 30,000,000 bushels, while the Middle States and Maryland only produce 24,000,000.

Change of Time.

By the act passed at the recent session of the Legislature changing the times of holding the terms of the Circuit and Supreme Courts, the Supreme Court is to be held on the first Monday of January, 1873, and thereafter annually on the second Monday of December, instead of the first Monday of September as heretofore.

The Circuit Courts are to be held in the several Judicial Districts as follows:

First District.—In the county of Josephine on the fourth Monday of October; Jackson, second Monday of February, June and November.

Second District.—Douglas, third Monday of October and second Monday of May; Coos, fourth Monday of May and second Monday of September; Curry, first Monday of June; Lane, third Monday of April and first Monday of November; Benton, second Monday of April and third Monday of November.

Third District.—Linn, fourth Monday of March and second Monday of October; Marion, second Monday of March, June and November; Polk, second Monday of May and fourth Monday of November; Yamhill, second Monday of April and fourth Monday of October; Tillamook, second Monday of July.

Fourth District.—Clackamas, fourth Monday of April and September; Multnomah, second Monday of February, June and October; Columbia, second Monday of April; Clatsop, second Tuesday of August and fourth Tuesday of January; Washington, fourth Monday of May and first Monday of October.

Fifth District.—Wasco, third Monday of June and second Monday of November; Grant, first Monday of June and third Monday of September; Baker, third Monday of May and first Monday of October; Union, first Monday of May and third Monday of October; Umatilla, last Monday of April and fourth Monday of October.

The Act also provides that the County Commissioners shall meet on Wednesday next succeeding the first day of each term of the County Court.

This law takes effect January 1, 1873.

The telegraph failed yesterday afternoon somewhere south of Yreka.

Edmund Yates on Charles Dickens.

Edmund Yates in his lecture on Dickens recently delivered in New York, said:

I will not speak of Dickens as a novelist but as my dear friend. He aimed merely for the nonce to be the Boswell of the great novelist. When he had first known Dickens that great man had already changed very noticeably in personal appearance from the young man who, as some one had said, "came and calmly took his place at the head of English literature," and whose features had been preserved for us by the pencil of Maclise. His hair was already streaked with gray; time had carved thoughtful lines about his face, and his complexion had a peculiarly weather-beaten red-brown tint, which made him look singularly like some sailor, who had been subjected to every vicissitude of climate and weather. Mr. Yates proceeded to minutely describe Mr. Dickens' residence at Gadshill—its guardian dogs, its furniture and pictures, its apartments and garden, and, more particularly and minutely than all, Dickens' study. Dickens'

HABITS OF LIFE

were very regular. He breakfasted at nine, and from ten to two invariably secluded himself in his study or in the little Summer chalet given by Fechter for purposes of literary work. Dickens believed that literary work should be done at stated hours the same as any other business. Dickens, it might be stated also, worked very slowly. Even when young this was the case, as he confessed himself, when he wrote to Lady Blessington, "that he had just finished a book and had come out of it like a murderer." Mr. Dickens, as editor of All the Year Round, did an immense amount of work, all the real labor of that journal being done by him. Dickens, as was well known, was a great walker, and he (Yates) had been greatly surprised, since he had been in this country, to hear it stated that this was mainly to get rid of the effects of the

PREVIOUS NIGHT'S POTATIONS.

No calumny could be more unfounded. But Dickens' walks were no more pleasure strolls. He was ever, on those pilgrimages, busy collecting new scenes and characters for his novels. Dickens was a great actor. His power of impersonation was something wonderful, though he only played at private theatricals. Dickens was a very happy letter-writer—a faculty which Mr. Yates proceeded to illustrate by reading several humorous and pointed epistles from Mr. Dickens to himself and to his mother. Dickens had been in the height of his fame and glory, though not without warning. Strangely enough, five years before his death, on the same day—the 9th of June—on which he died, he was in a railroad accident at Staplehurst. Dickens then sustained a shock which probably shortened his life and from the effects of which he never thoroughly recovered. Mr. Yates went on to allude to Dickens' political opinions and his intense contempt for the aristocracy. All the noblemen in his novels were either foolish or absurd, and he had once told Mr. Yates that the idea of an hereditary peerage was preposterously absurd. The only public occasion on which Dickens ever lost his temper was once at a dinner, when, having been twitted by Lord Houghton for his literary injustice to the peerage, he turned round and replied, "What amazing devil had possessed him to accuse him of having depreciated the patrician order." Before his death Dickens was shown considerable favor by the Queen, and might have obtained any distinction that his tastes and opinions would permit him to accept. Mr. Yates then narrated the manner of the great novelist's death, and concluded by a peroration, in which he paid an affectionate tribute to the character and genius of the author of "Pickwick."

Death of a Prominent Citizen.

We clip the following from Forney's Press of Nov. 2:

Hon. William F. Johnston, ex-Governor of Pennsylvania, died in Pittsburg on Saturday afternoon of dropsy after an illness of ninety three months. His death, though sudden to the public, was not unexpected to his personal friends. Mr. Johnston was elected Governor of Pennsylvania in 1848 to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Governor Shunk. His majority was the smallest any candidate ever received for the Governorship in this State, being only 302 votes in a total of over three hundred thousand. In 1851, just previous to the expiration of his term, he was again the Whig candidate for Governor, but was defeated by William Bigler by a majority of 8,465. After the formation of the Republican party Mr. Johnston became connected with that organization, but he followed the fortunes of Andrew Johnson, from whom he had, just previous to the celebrated Wigwam Convention of 1866, received the appointment of Collector of Customs for the port of Philadelphia. He took a very prominent part in the Wigwam Convention, to which he had been appointed a delegate at large from Pennsylvania. On retiring from the Custom House he disappeared from public view until the recent election, when he was one of the opposition candidates for Congress in the Twenty-third district of this State, receiving less than 7,000 votes.

The Philadelphia Press of the 2d inst. has the following:

Several Cabinet councils, as many as three in one week, have lately been held in London, and it is said several measures to be brought forward by the Gladstone Administration in the ensuing Parliamentary session have been under consideration. Among these, it is asserted, will be projects for distribution of seats in the House of Commons according to population, on the American plan; a reconstruction of the boundaries of Parliamentary boroughs; and the extension of the household suffrage to the counties. This, in fact, would constitute a new reform bill, on which, according to old custom, Whigs, Tories and Radicals will have to say a great deal, for and against.

CITY.

COLUMBIA —Mr Levi Knott one of the principal owners in these mines returned to the city last Friday after an absence of several months His information as to the work being done at the Lode is quite lively Upon he left six men were employed in sinking a shaft Most of the machinery for the quartz mill had arrived on the ground and been put in running condition Owing to the lateness of the season operations will be suspended until spring except the sinking of the shaft The shaft in question is 10x20 feet in the clear inside of the timbers which are placed around the edges all the way down to prevent caving in, falling stones etc When Mr Knott left, the shaft had reached a depth of 12 feet, and was being sunk as rapidly as the difficulties attending the work would permit The whole distance of the shaft so far has been made through the hard, solid quartz rock Every inch of progress downward has been and must be accomplished by means of blasting Work under such circumstances proceeds slowly The intention is to sink the shaft 100 feet this winter, and have everything in readiness to prosecute the work with renewed ardor on the opening of spring The shaft is not perpendicular but inclines at an angle of two inches to the lineal foot Sixty kegs of blasting powder were received at the mines a short time before the departure of Mr Knott, but this quantity is thought to be insufficient to accomplish the proposed work Five or six blasts are made ready at a time, when the men climb out by means of ladders, and touch all off at once To prevent any accident resulting from falling in case or the gaining away of any portion of the walls, staunch timbers 12x12 inches are placed at regulated intervals which securely brace the whole shaft About two weeks ago, snow fell on the mountains around the mines two feet deep but did not remain on the ground but a few days When Mr Knott left, the weather was cold and bracing, but not disagreable Snow usually falls to considerable depth at the Bohemia during the winter months Those mines are situated in the mountains—Cascades—about 50 miles southeast of Eugene City.

FOUND OVER —De Estrella, the man who was arrested last Friday on the charge of committing incest with his own daughter, a girl aged 14 years, was examined yesterday before Justice Anderson The court deemed the testimony sufficient to warrant a further examination of the case, held the defendant to answer the charge before the grand jury. From the evidence before the court at the examination it is made to appear that the father, one week ago last Friday took his daughter up stairs, in the house of his son in law during the absence of his married daughter and her husband locked the doors, and by dint of threats and the exercise of parental authority, succeeded in perpetrating the unnatural outrage on her person. At the time the offense was committed, the father threatened to whip her if she communicated to her sister or any one else, what had transpired A young man it seems had been a frequenter of the son in law's house, and had been on terms of great intimacy with the young girl It was alleged by the father that this young man had been detected in taking very improper liberties with the person of the daughter. He had forbidden his daughter to speak to the young man again, or to have anything whatever to do with him. The daughter has failed to obey the instructions of the parent, and De Estrella last Thursday whipped the girl severely for her disobedience After the chastisement the daughter informed her married sister of the improper conduct of her father the week preceding A warrant was soon after issued by Justice Anderson and the defendant taken into custody Defendant being unable to give bonds, was committed to jail to await the action of the grand jury now in session

FIRE ALARM —Just as everybody's mind was filled with accounts of the dreadful and calamitous visitation of fire which has befallen the "Athens of America," the fire bells of Portland rang an alarm last evening about six o'clock While the thought ran like an electric flash through the minds of all, "Has Portland's time come at last?" the different companies flew with more than their ordinary celerity to the respective houses and towards where the element was supposed to have commenced its destructive feast By a common impulse the companies met at the intersection of First and Morrison streets The alarm however proved a false one and the companies dispersed The alarm it is said originated from the upsetting of a frying pan in the second story of a little wooden building at the corner, where cooking was going on.

ADDITIONAL CASES —Up to yesterday, the following additional appeal cases were filed in the Clerk's office for trial at the present term of the Circuit Court

Smith Bros vs Northrop and Drew
Wm Ryan vs Thomas Ryan
J F. Flynn vs Patrick Lawler
Chas Stephens vs Thomas Handley
J P O Lowndale vs D. Monastes
D Monastes vs J H Eagan.
P Lawler vs J P Cline

The above cases were all appealed from Justices' Courts The following case was appealed from the County Court
J L and T 2l Daly vs Jas H Frush

Samuel's Directory of Portland is illustrated, containing besides twenty four local scenes, a fine view of the Portland bridge soon to be in course of construction This publication will be the most reliable and complete ever published here will be sent to every hotel in Oregon and Washington Territory, giving it a circulation never before attained by any similar publication, and still his rates of advertising are 25 per cent less than others are charging for a cheaply gotten up "mere apology for a Directory" Don't be imposed upon, but patronize Samuel's Directory it is the best and cheapest.

SNOW —Most persons suppose that the snow which fell yesterday is the first which has fallen in the valley the present year. This, however, is not the case The first snow which visited this latitude was on last Saturday morning A gentleman who resides six miles northwest of the city on the Cornell road, informs us that snow fell at the time mentioned on the hills near his house, to a depth of two inches. It was but short lived, and disappeared in a few hours after the sun appeared on the scene

WRIST HURT.—Mr. Levi Estes met with a severe accident last Saturday while superintending some improvements now being made to his brick building on Washington street He lost his foot log as he was stepping from one timber to another and fell some distance to the ground One of his wrists were badly sprained and crushed by the violence of the fall He is confined to his house, and will be unable to attend to his duties for some time to come

INCREASED VOLUME —The recent heavy rains in the upper portions of the valley have, it is reported, materially increased the volume of the river above the falls. Boats are to commence plying when the stage of water will permit, to points as far southward as can be reached with safety. Several more to have left the basin at Oregon City yesterday morning

TAKEN ACROSS —The bark Red Deer was hauled across to the east side wharf yesterday morning, to receive the remainder of her cargo. She will be loaded down as low as the present stage of water will admit, and then towed below the St. Helens' bar Whatever quantity may be required to complete the cargo will be taken down on the river steamers.

LARGE ELK KILLED —The steamer Fannie Troop brought up yesterday a very large elk which weighed in the vicinity of eight or nine hundred pounds The animal was shot last Sunday on the Wallamet Slough, by a Mr Bonser The elk is in splendid condition, the flesh being as fat and juicy as the best steaks which our markets can afford

SOON TO COMMENCE —Work is soon to begin on the mammoth warehouse which is to be erected on the east side of the river. A portion of the timbers for the frame, lumber, etc will be conveyed to the site in the course of a week, and up wards will be commenced as soon thereafter as the ground can be put in a condition to lay the foundation

SENT UP —John Gordon convicted of manslaughter, and John Davoe, convicted of larceny in the Circuit Court for Clackamas county at its recent term, were both taken to the Penitentiary from Oregon City yesterday Each are under sentences to the Hotel de Watkinds for one year

ARRIVED LOCOMOTIVE —Another new locomotive called the "Santiam," for the Oregon and California Railroad, is expected to arrive soon on a sailing vessel

TO DRAW ON SIGHT —We were shown yesterday by Mr M A King a dispatch from San Francisco from W B Johnston, General Agent at that place for the Liverpool and London and Globe Insurance Company which read as follows Our English Directors authorize New York agency to draw on them at sight all Boston loss

FOR THE OPPOSITION —Some repairs and alterations are being made to the wharf of Stephens & Moffett at the foot of Main street We are informed that the wharf will be used when ready for service by the Willamet River Navigation Company as soon as their boats may be ready to run on the upper and lower Wallamet

STRANDED —In consequence of the heavy rain and snow which fell yesterday, carpenter work upon the Custom House was suspended Temporary sheds were erected at various places about the yard by the stone cutters to afford them shelter from the inclemency of the weather while engaged at work

CANVASSING FOR NAMES —Mr Samuel will commence to canvass the city for names for his new Directory to day The city has been divided into four sections and a canvasser appointed to each It is expected to have the names all arranged in the course of ten days

FINED FOR ASSAULT —Annie Taylor was tried before Justice Ryan yesterday, charged with the crime of assaulting the person of L Burns The court imposed a fine of $5 and costs, which was paid by the defendant, and the cause dismissed

SLEIGHING —The snow last night lay on the streets and sidewalks to a depth of nearly two inches A sudden rise of the temperature is all that could prevent the advent of the merry tinkling bells, and the smoothly gliding sleighs

FREIGHTS —The volume of freight up the Columbia suffers no abatement. Large quantities are carried away daily by the O S N Co's boats Up country merchants appear to be laying in their winter stocks of goods

DISCHARGED.—Lizzie Burns was arraigned yesterday before Justice Ryan charged with assaulting Annie Taylor The defendant was discharged, it having been proven that she had been fined before for the same offence

UNTIL THIS MORNING —The grand jury of the Circuit Court were not in session yesterday This body was chosen by the court, and the jurors were not required to be in attendance until this morning at 9 o'clock.

BILLS RETURNED —The United States grand jury now in session, has, we learn, returned several true bills to the Court We are not, however, at liberty to mention the cases at present, for certain reasons

CONTINUED —The case of M Durkheimer, charged with larceny before Justice Ryan, has been continued until this evening at 6 o'clock, the defendant having demanded a jury trial.

STILL NO TRACES —At the latest accounts from Astoria, no traces have yet been discovered of the five missing men supposed to have been drowned last Tuesday

GRAND JURY DISCHARGED —The U S Grand Jury having completed its labors will probably be discharged to day

AMUSEMENTS.

The members of Nonpariel Lodge I. O. G. T will give a social entertainment at their hall this evening

The intensely exciting drama of "Nick of the Woods," and the side splitting farce of "Terry O'Rear, or the Escaped Nun," were rendered last evening at Oro Fino Theater to a crowded house

There was the usual large attendance at the hall given by the Turn Verein et Philharmonic Hall last evening Every one appeared to be enjoying the affair and no one could feel otherwise when they are among the German people on such an occasion The music was excellent, and nothing seemed to be wanting to make the affair in every way pleasurable

This evening for the first time in Portland will be produced at Oro Fino Theater, the thrilling sensation drama of "The Detective" The piece has been judiciously cast, and includes the whole strength of the company No efforts or expense have been spared by the management to have the most appropriate and striking scenery introduced on the stage in connection with the production of this very attractive drama Every one should not fail to see "The Detective"

SECRET DISCOVERED —The secret of dressing is not to much in expensive clothing as in the perfect fit of the garments This fact is thoroughly understood by Messrs Roberts corner of First and Washington streets, hence they keep fairly up as gentlemen Their stock is complete in every department If you would keep warm during the coming winter delay not in selecting suitable woolen goods You will be certainly convinced of this in calling from the many desirably received articles in this house If you have once dealt with them success ensues for all or your cash back and courteous treatment

If you have not yet by direct call or letter you should delay no longer The work turned out by O'Neil & Co., 90 First street is the very perfection of tasteful workmanship Their establishment is one of the most attractive in the city They keep the best furnishing goods make fitting, and their clothing goods at prices that must will favor a long call

LINES TO

There's a language that a mute
There's a silence that speaks,
There's a something that cannot be told;
There are words that can only be read in the cheeks,
And thoughts but the eyes can unfold
There's a look so expressive as timid as kind,
So meek so sad so full of fun;
The dumb in an instant it speaks out the mind,
And strikes in an instant the heart
This eloquent silence this fondness of soul
In vain we attempt to suppress
The keeper it grows from the will to control
The more apt the spirit truth to express
Then oh what delight in the features is seen;
What raptures the bosom do melt,
When blessed in each other, the converse divine
Is mutually spoken and felt

The Key to Health

It is the first thing in the world to keep the blessing of health intact and when it once is lost to restore it if possible within fifty years of a tremendous measure of the world's experience has fortunately for mankind been practically exploited The intelligent use of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters during a quarter of a century past must have given to the vis vitæ of countless thousands a power of resistance to disease which the world has learned from the best medical authority to consider the most admirable preparation that of medicines may embrace for three properties of tonic laxative and alterative that the three curative processes of vivification purification and regulation may be compassed at the same time by the operation of a single agreeable remedy There are sound physicians who are using the Bitters as the remarkable improvement which the fluids undergo in the condition of a deranged and enfeebled system Its pure combination of vegetable juices not only strengthens the stomach, stimulates the appetite and harasses the nerves but also imparts tone and vigor to the secretory organs—as the skin, the liver and the bowels—and if the blood has become too thin and watery to nourish the body properly enriches and vitalizes that raw material of all the solid portions of the frame At this period of the year when intermittent fevers bilious disorders, stomach complaints and dyspepsia and diarrhœa affluents are always more or less rife, occasional doses of the Bitters will be found the best safeguard against the atmospheric conditions which generate them An accession of general vigor is necessary to enable the system to resist the morbid influence of the malarious vapors which rise from the earth at this season, and of all the known invigorants Hostetter's Bitters is the safest and the most potent

Telegrams.

Attention has been called by a writer in the Revue des Deux Mondes to the special advantage which the Germans derive in the international telegraphy, from the fact of their language lending itself almost indefinitely to the use of compound words. Thus what in English we should call the "Rhine and Neckar Steam Navigation Company," could only be described in French by "Compagnie de la Navigation par bateaux a vapeur sur le Rhin et le Neckar," while the Germans stamming up the title in a single word would say "Rheinneckarumpfschiffahrtgesellschaft." There are limits however to everything, and at the last international telegraphic conference it was decided that words of more than seven syllables should be charged double. The French delegate, in the interest of a language abounding in short words, thought six syllables plenty to allow, but the seven syllable party, with Germany (supported no doubt by Russia) at its head, gained the day. For England six syllables would have been quite enough. Indeed it is doubtful whether under existing regulations, a telegraph clerk would permit an to replace in the German style, "late speaker of the House of Commons" by "ex-Commons-House-speaker," or even "Chancellor of the Exchequer" by "Exchequer-Chancellor." Some, however, of the restrictions on the use of compound words in English are strikingly unfair. Why, for instance, when "Rheludampfschiffahrtgesellschaft" (seven syllables) would be charged in German as one word, should "Rhine-Steam-Ship Company" (six syllables) be charged in English as four words? When the telegraphic art, still in its infancy, has attained a much fuller development German will possible become the general language of telegraphy, as French was at one time the general language of diplomacy. A Frenchman often expresses himself with more conciseness, both in speaking and writing, than a German; but with fewer syllables he employs a greater number of words, and this in telegraphy would, for economical reasons, be objectionable. Unless, then, some future international conference should recommend payment by syllables instead of words, the fittest, and cheapest style of telegraphy ought to be found in a German vocabulary used with French terseness—a difficult combination no doubt. Mr. Carlyle, accustomed to employ all sorts of compound words, and never one word too many, would make an admirable telegraphic correspondent. Mr. Gladstone, on the other hand, from the diffuseness of his style, would be eminently unfitted for such a post, and, entrusted with the composition of telegrams to China or Australia, would speedily bring his employers to grief. The censorship, in despotic countries, is said to have had a remarkable effect in producing suppleness of style, inasmuch as writers, under its benignant influence, were often obliged to say what they had to say by hints, suggestions, innendoes, circumlocutions, and indirect means of all kinds. The best Russian journalist was he who knew how to express himself in such a manner that his idea could be seized, but not the newspaper which made it known. A habit of writing for the telegraph ought in a similar manner, through pressure of a different kind, to teach the art of condensing. The celebrated "veni, vidi, vici," is usually looked upon as a short, suggestive, and at the same time tolerably complete sentence. But for telegraphic purposes it is far too long, "Vici" tells the whole story.

We cannot say, however, that the telegrams published from day to day in the newspapers are generally too laconic. Indeed, communications described as having been received "by telegraph" are often remarkable for nothing so much as for their prolixity. Perhaps the condensation so desirable for telegraphic purposes is followed by a reactionary expansion in the office to which the message is addressed? Let us assume, for instance, that the following despatch has been sent by telegraph from Lyons to the editor of an enterprising newspaper in London:—"Bourbaki forbids groups. Barricades commenced. Troops fire. Barricades abandoned. Numerous arrests. Permanent court-martial. Quiet restored." This telegram would be more effective published as received; the breathless, gasping style of the message being sufficiently suggestive of the occurrences reported. But it has a cheap look, and an injudicious editor, to give it length and an appearance of commercial importance, would stretch it out into something like this:—"General Bourbaki, commanding the district of which Lyons is the centre, issued a proclamation which may now be read on the walls of the city, to the effect that groups assembling in the streets, on no matter what pretext, would forthwith be dispersed by force. This measure, which I need not inform your readers is customary on the outbreak of disturbances, was far from producing the desired result. Indeed, the popular excitement went on increasing until at last the more determined, of the malcontents began tearing up the pavement in the streets, and the first steps toward constructing barricades. The troops, who had been called out at the first sign of an emeute, were now ordered to act. They advanced toward the already half-constructed barricades. Three times the drum was beaten (the equivalent to our reading the riot act)"—and so on to the end of the story, which, be it observed, is in our amplification scarcely half told.

We have been informed that in American newspaper offices there are editors whose special duty it is to compose prose fantasies on telegraphic themes, are we are not by any means sure that the art has not already crossed the Atlantic. In that case, unless its cultivation be kept within bounds, newspaper readers though they may at first be astonished, will not in the end be benefited by its introduction. The great charm of telegraphic news used to be that we did not get much of it. True or false, the bulk did not prevent us swallowing it. Now it is too often presented, not in the old form of pills, but in copious draughts. Yet weak and washy as it may be when it reaches us, it is doubtless invariably sent out in a highly concentrated form—as so much "extract of news"; and it is to be regretted that the artistic labors of the literary Liebigs who prepare it should be rendered wholly imperceptible through the mean process of dilution.

Where the Gold Goes.

In the reign of Darius gold was 13 times more valuable, weight for weight, than silver. In the time of Plato it was 12 times more valuable. In that of Julius Cesar gold was only 9 times more valuable, owing, perhaps, to the enormous quantities of gold seized by him in his wars. It is a natural question to ask, What became of the gold and silver?

A paper read before the Polytechnic Association by Dr. Stephens, recently, is calculated to meet this inquiry. He says of our annual gold product, fully 15 per cent. is melted down for manufacture; 35 per cent. goes to Europe; 25 per cent to Cuba; 15 per cent. to Brazil; 5 per cent to Japan, China and the Indies; leaving but 5 per cent. for circulation in this country. Of that which goes to Cuba, the West Indies and Brazil, fully 50 per cent. finds its way to Europe, where, after deducting a large percentage used in manufacturing, four-fifths of the remainder is exported to India.

Here the transit of the precious metal is at an end. Here the supply, however vast, is absorbed, and never returns to the civilized world. The Orientals consume but little, while their productions have ever been in demand among the Western nations. As mere recipients, these nations have acquired the desire of accumulation and hoarding, which is a fashion common alike to all classes among the Egyptians, Chinese and Persians.

A French economist says, in his opinion the former nation alone can hide away $20,000,000 of gold and silver annually, and the present Emperor of Morocco is reported as so addicted to this avaricious mania that he has filled seventeen large chambers with the precious metals. This being the passion of princes, it is not surprising that the same spirit is shared by their subjects, and it is in this predilection that we discover the solution of the problem as to the ultimate disposition of the precious metals. This absorption by the Eastern nations has been uninterruptedly going on since the most remote historical period. According to Pliny, as much as $100,000,000 in gold was in his day annually exported to the East, The balance of trade in favor of those nations is now given at $80,000,000.

The Colorado papers are agitating the subject of a mineral fair, to be held somewhere in the mineral regions of that Territory.

Letter from Canyon City.

CANYON CITY, Nov. 6, 1872.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN:

The election passed off very quietly here, as there was but one Democrat who had bet on Greeley, and he worked as though he expected to elect Greeley by the vote of this one precinct. Grant received 24 majority without the use of whisky or apples. The Liberals used both plentifully. Outside precincts, so far as heard from, give a total majority of 51 for Grant.

Our fall races ended last Thursday. One thousand dollars was paid by the citizens into the purses, and they all went to the President of the Jockey's club, J. J. Cozart, which went to prove him the greatest jockey of them all. Basket, of Polk county, and Swift, of Umatilla, and Leonard, of Montana, were here with good horses, and John B Miller had a fine horse here from California, but none could catch the renowned Dr Lindsay, owned by President Cozart. Everybody outside the jockey ring bet on Basket's and other horses, but they all lost save those who knew Dr. Lindsay was the fastest and would beat them all at any price. President Cozart knew, it seems, that Dr. Lindsay could beat Whalebone, Jeff Davis, Red Fox and Dasher, but those who raised the purses bet against him and lost.

The principal topic of communication to-day has been the great conflagration in Boston, the immense losses thereby sustained, and the probable effect on the general finances of the country. We have heard it remarked that the effect will not be much felt on this coast, but of this being true we have serious doubts. That $100,000,000 of property can be destroyed utterly and completely in a single day, and the whole business of the country not feel the shock, is impossible. The telegrams reporting the excited condition of Wall street, and giving intimations of a financial crisis, not unexpected before, but now hurried upon the country by this fearful disaster; and the warning to be prepared for a panic, have been received, and we doubt not that far-seeing financiers are already on the alert in preparing for a shock which may possibly not come. We would excite no unnecessary alarm, nor do we believe that the bankers and capitalists of the United States are men who are often caught by an unforeseen calamity like the present with their hands bound, but we trust that the general prediction of the ill fate will not prove true, and that our outcome will exhibit the true American enterprise and pluck. But to do this will require the most careful husbandry of the resources of the country. The full importance of the losses to the country indirectly from the fire cannot at this early moment be explained, but there are many branches of business which will certainly suffer very materially. In the meantime, we apprehend that nothing we can say to-day will throw much light upon the situation, or relieve the state of suspense in which matters stand, until all the results are fully known.

Home Produce Market.

Our local market to-day has been very dull, and we have no important matters to review. The exceedingly inclement weather and the exciting news of the Boston fire caused almost a suspension of business among our larger houses.

Wheat has continued to arrive in fair quantities, though we have heard of no important transactions to-day. We anticipate that the receipts of the week will be large, as the number of purchases reported last week were considerable, and the heavy rains will enable the boats to reach points farther up the river than heretofore this season. Prices remain as on Saturday.

Receipts of other produce have been limited, and rates are unchanged in any instance.

Corn, Oats, Barley and Rye.

The corn crop, according to the statistical report of the Department of Agriculture for October, promises to be one of the largest the country has ever grown. Only five States return less than average percentage, and every one of the others is above the average of the large crops of last year, including all the principal Corn growing States. The product of Oats is apparently increased as compared with that of last year by about three per cent, but it will not equal the aggregate of 265,000,000 bushels. The quality of the Oat crop, however, is quite poor with last year. The Barley product is slightly above that of last year in all the Western States except Missouri, Ohio and Indiana, and is also increased in Tennessee and Texas. A decrease is apparent in all the Atlantic States. The indications scarcely favor as large a total aggregate as last year. The Rye crop appears to be smaller by two per cent than that of last year. The quality is generally good.

Brewers' and Stamp Cancellers.

The brewers of New York, Pennsylvania and New Jersey, also the General Committee of the Brewers' Association of the United States, have memorialized the Commissioner of the Internal Revenue respecting the proposed introduction of stamp cancellors to each brewer's cask or package. They argue that such a measure would entail enormous expense upon the Government and great loss to the brewers without any corresponding advantage to the Government. They calculate that to carry out such a system would cost the revenue not less than $3,750,000, one-fourth of which would be a dead loss to the brewers. They maintain that the tax on malt liquors can, by the present law, be collected almost to a dollar, and that consequently the new system would prove as unnecessary as onerous.
